2 Best execution

To obtain the best possible results for the entities managed when executing trade orders (best execution) Syd Fund Management A/S takes into account factors that affect the total settlement amount, representing the price of the financial instrument and all expenses directly related to order execution. These factors constitute:

- Charges
- Costs

The relative importance of these factors is determined according to the following criteria:

Usually price and costs will be given precedence. Subsequently speed of order execution and likelihood of order execution will also be important.

In connection with large transactions or transactions in specific instruments importance may be attached to other factors.

3 Transmission of orders to third parties trading on behalf of the funds managed

The choice of securities dealers to trade on behalf of the funds managed is based on the consideration of providing the best possibilities of obtaining best execution.

In practice the choice of securities dealers is made for classes of financial instruments in order to obtain the best trade overall. There may be instances where the best price is not achieved despite the fact that handling is in compliance with the principles of this policy. Appendix 1 is a list of securities dealers with which orders may be placed for each type of instrument. Appendix 1 may be amended by Syd Fund Management A/S without any impact on this policy.

The factors listed above constitute the primary criteria in the efforts to obtain the best possible result for the investment funds managed. The relative importance of these factors is determined according to the above.
